

Take on Tobacco!

A Guide to the
Certified Tobacco Educator
Examination

Take on Tobacco!

The Certified Tobacco Educator Designation

The Certified Tobacco Educator (CTE) credential is a unique healthcare professional designation to your tobacco prevention and cessation practice. The process to obtain this designation involves a rigorous certification process that includes a written examination, a practical assessment, and a final evaluation. The CTE designation is a mark of excellence and is recognized by the public and healthcare professionals alike. It is a testament to your commitment to tobacco prevention and cessation and your dedication to the health and well-being of your community.

Take on Tobacco!

The Certified Tobacco Educator Designation

The Certified Tobacco Educator (CTE) credential recognizes healthcare professionals who provide tobacco prevention and cessation services to their clients. This new credential demonstrates to your clients, peers and supervisors that you have the competencies to provide comprehensive, evidence-informed care in tobacco. The CTE credential is based on two sets of competencies: the enhanced foundational education competencies and the tobacco education competencies.

Certification Process

The process to certification will be similar to other CNRC credentials.

CTE Examinations

The next examination is scheduled for Friday, November 24th, 2023.

Requirements to Challenge the CTE Exam

If you already hold a current CNRC credential (i.e. CRE, CAE, CCE)

You are not required to take a foundational health education course. However, the new foundational health education competencies are significantly different from the education content in the CRE, CAE and CCE learning objectives. You will still be evaluated on the foundational health education competencies on the CTE exam. As this content is so different, we highly recommend that you complete a new foundational health education course and purchase the CNRC foundational health education workbook.

You must complete one of the following tobacco education programs:
